An experienced senior executive with over 17 years of success in educational leadership and board relations, Abigail DeLessio partners with independent and international schools to provide strategic direction, focus, and insight, ensuring the identification and implementation of sustainable, strategic goals. Abbi has led two school boards, including chairing the Board of Managers at Hong Kong International School (HKIS), one of the premier independent schools in Asia. Abbi has expertise in governance, board development, leadership search, strategic planning and operations management and she utilizes her experience in independent school governance, working closely with school leadership to maximize strengths and identify opportunities for differentiation and growth to help schools advance their missions and visions. Her first-hand experience provides the expertise to lead boards around the world in a variety of disciplines, including design thinking, policy development and implementation, and the application of best practice in independent and international school governance.

Abbi obtained a B.A. in Economics from Clark University and holds a Certified FT Non-Executive Director Diploma (Level 7). In addition to her international and independent school board service, Abbi has served as chair or member of numerous international boards including the Asian University for Women Hong Kong Support Foundation; the Child Development Centre; and the Support! International Foundation. Abbi and her husband Tim reside in Tucson, Arizona and New York City, New York.
